

Launching the Student Blog on the Seneca Business PRME Intranet

Published 10/27/2022 by Anitta Toma

We are excited to announce the launch of the Student Blog on the Seneca Business PRME Intranet!

The aim of this initiative is to provide a centralized platform for Seneca Business students to share their content, stories, and experiences around sustainability-related topics. We are hoping this will become a space for students to develop their own voice, writing skills, and creative expression.

To this end, we are calling for interested students who would like to write about their experiences in relation to sustainability, to get involved as volunteer Student Authors. This is a great opportunity to have student stories heard in and outside of the College and receive a recognition certificate for it.

Please take a look at the attached poster for more details and click on this link to apply!

tags : prme, prme-happening