Course and Program Development/Redevelopment

Version 19

Service design involves creating courses that align with the program outcomes and fit into the curriculum map. The course learning outcomes are taught, practiced and assessed within the Course's semester. Following a course-to-course thinking about set-up, will "teach." This process then flows students with tasit. In-the-place of watching tasit and the ways the learning will be "assessed" in course of all the course-based big-picture educational.
