

GAP student – A Success Story

Published 1/24/2024 by Oi Ling Kwok

Dania Nasir graduated from the General Art (GAP) program in 2022. Prior to her academic journey in the program, she explored and studied in multiple different post-secondary programs. Yet, she could not find her passion and felt quite hopeless until she was introduced to the GAP program. Dania created a digital story to highlight her gratitude for the opportunity she gained from GAP and hopes that it can inspire other GAP students as they embark on their own journey.

Dania has been very involved in speaking about her experience in the GAP program with the students in course PSY355 – Applied Psychology of Learning and Careers, taught by professor Helen Kwok. Her continued contributions and involvement in the program showcases the impact of our committed Seneca Community.

Please enjoy Dania's creation!

tags : alumni, digital-story, gap, student-success-story