

Welcome New Faculty Members: Understanding Your PD Requirements

Published 7/16/2024 by Ashley Ribbel

Welcome to your new role at Seneca Polytechnic! We are excited to have you on our faculty team. As you embark on this journey with us, it's important to familiarize yourself with your professional development (PD) requirements. These requirements ensure that all faculty members, regardless of their employment status, have opportunities to enhance their skills, stay current in their fields, and contribute effectively to our academic community.

We look forward to supporting you in your professional growth and development at Seneca!

- Professional Development Requirements for Non Full-time Faculty
- Professional Development Plan for Non Full-time Faculty – these courses are open to all faculty members and instructors

Professional Development Requirements for Full-Time Faculty

The following are the professional development requirements through the Teaching & Learning Centre for newly-hired full-time faculty members:

- Participate in the Micro-teaching Sessions or the Teaching & Learning Summer Conference
- Attend New Faculty Orientation
- Complete the three components of the Faculty Development Program

Micro-teaching Sessions or the Teaching & Learning Summer Conference focuses on teaching strategies, assessment, and using technology in your class. Micro-teaching is when a group of faculty members observe others teaching short lessons and provide feedback. It requires active participation as a portion of this two-day event is dedicated to creating and delivering short lessons in small groups.

☒ Next offering: Micro-teaching Sessions is tentatively scheduled for Feb. 25-26, 2026

New Faculty Orientation is a one-day events that provides an overview of the services and supports that impact teaching practice at Seneca. It concludes with a workshop about the use of Learn@Seneca (Seneca's branded version of Blackboard, our Learning Management System).

☒ Next offering: New Faculty Orientation is tentatively scheduled for Aug. 2026

The Faculty Development Program is designed to help faculty develop and/or demonstrate teaching-related competencies in a flexible and practical way. It consists of three courses. Due to the pre-requisites, the Faculty Development Program courses must be taken and completed in order.

☒ Next offering: Faculty Development Program 1 (FDP1) will not run in winter 2026.

Professional Development Requirements for Non Full-Time Faculty

Your primary professional development requirement as a new non full-time faculty member is to attend a Teaching & Learning Centre Orientation session. It will provide you with valuable information on how to get started teaching at Seneca.

New Faculty Orientation is a one-day events that provides an overview of the services and supports that impact teaching practice at Seneca. It concludes with a workshop about the use of Learn@Seneca (Seneca's branded version of Blackboard, our Learning Management System).

☒ Next offering: New Faculty Orientation is tentatively schedule for Aug. 2026

We understand that some of you may have prior commitments on the date of the New Faculty Orientation. If you are unable to attend the in-person session due to these commitments, you may opt to join this online session instead. This session will cover valuable information on getting started with teaching at Seneca and will be offered more than once early in the term to accommodate different schedules.

☒ Next offering: New Faculty Orientation for Non Full-time Faculty is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, Jan. 7, 2026

We're excited to introduce our Professional Development Plan for Non Full-time Faculty Members. This plan, integrated into Seneca's micro-credentials system, offers you the opportunity to enhance your skills and earn micro-credentials (digital badges) for each course completion. These courses are open to all faculty members and instructors.

Visit the PD Plan page to see the courses in the plan that are being offered each term. Before registering for one of these courses, please inform your Chair that you are interested in registering for a course from the PD Plan for Non Full-time Faculty Members.
