Academic Quality invites all faculty interested in research on teaching and learning to apply for Seneca's Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) program.

SoTL is a field of research that connects teaching and learning. The program provides faculty with an opportunity to study their own teaching practice to better meet the learning needs of their students.

Seneca will support up to four SoTL projects starting in the Fall 2026 academic year. Proposals are due Monday, March 30.

To learn more, join the SoTL Info Session held virtually on Wednesday, March 4, 11 a.m. to noon.

We also encourage you to visit the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning space and add your name to the Expression of Interest list.
