Seneca's Academic Integrity (AI) policy helps maintain a high standard of academic integrity across the college community and provides the foundation for research, teaching, learning and working practices. Familiarize yourself with this policy in advance of your course start date.

To report a potential AI offense, submit a completed Academic Integrity Report (available under Supporting Documentation) to your Coordinator/APM within 5 days of the offense. FCET's AI committee convenes on a regular basis to review submitted cases. Your familiarity with the AI policy, procedures and sanctions will ensure the committee can handle cases and communicate rulings to students in a timely manner.

The following resources can help current students and faculty navigate Academic Integrity:

- Academic Integrity at Seneca provides students and faculty with badges upon the completion of various Academic Integrity modules. The page also provides additional resources and useful definitions.
- Seneca Libraries provides faculty and students with online guides for various citation styles.
