Reflection from Stefan Kanitz on the Adobe Faculty Development Institute

Published 9/22/2020 by Ashley Ribbel

by Stefan Kanitz, School of Marketing

in the September 2020 issue

I had the honor this summer of being a participant in the first Creative Campus - Adobe Faculty Development Institute. This series of workshops was designed to introduce faculty to select Adobe Creative Cloud applications and provided actionable skills within each that can be used with students in the classroom and to prepare engaging content. Adobe Portfolio, Illustrator, Spark, Premiere, Audition, InDesign, and XD were all covered during the week-long program hosted over Zoom. Exceptionally well put together, all instructors were engaging and experts in their fields. Exercise objectives did not focus on an entire program but instead provided immediately usable skills upon which to build. I would strongly recommend this program to any Faculty member regardless their program or level of existing skill with Adobe applications!

Here is a look at the portfolio I developed as part of this experience: https://stefankanitz.myportfolio.com/.

View the September 2020 issue of the Academic Newsletter.

September 2020 issue

tags : educational-technology, educational-technology-tools, faculty-reflections